

من بن حبه و افله

A circular stamp in Arabic script, likely a library or ownership mark, located in the upper right corner of the page. The text is arranged in a circular pattern, with some words being more prominent than others.

قَالَ لَا أَهْلَ لَهُ وَلَا وَلَدَ لَهُ
اللَّهُمَّ صَلِّ وَسَلِّمْ عَلَى أَشْرَفِ الْخَلْقِ

وَ اكْمَلِ الْحَمْدُ مُحَمَّدًا وَآلَهُ وَصَحْبَهُ أَجْمَعِينَ الطَّيِّبِينَ الطَّاهِرِينَ كُنَّ الْعَبْدُ الْعَاجِزُ

He was one of the pupils of Darwish Aly, and was the first to introduce this style of writing into Egypt from Constantinople. It consists of extracts from the Traditional Sayings in Thuluth and Naskh.
